single—origin coffees in the clover press:

aida's grand reserve, santa ana, el salvador 7.50 counter culture coffee, direct trade, organic a very rare cup of coffee—some of the most sought-after beans in the world! the 2009 lot of Aida's Grand Reserve is nothing short of exceptional: an all-peaberry microlot selected from the three of the most legendary farms in central america—aida batlle's fincas los alpes, kilimanjaro, and mauritania. a honeysuckle-sweet, butterscotch and caramel fragrance add up to an immensely complex and perfect cup.

teka, muramvya, burundi 2.95

counter culture coffee, organic

at 1,938 meters above sea level, teka is one of the highest-altitude washing stations in burundi and has received high marks for quality. teka's careful processing of meticulously picked beans results in a superbly balanced cup.

valle de santuario, san ignacio, peru 3.25 counter culture coffee, direct trade, organic, shade-grown from the remote jungles of northern peru comes a very clean coffee redolent of cherry and chocolate.
